INFORMATION FOR DISTRIBUTORS

JULY 2017

Dear Friends,

After a month, here we are back with our regular updates, this time around covering new items for the month of July, 2017. As with every month, our lineup contains several items that are sure to please and we trust that no client will be left feeling out in the cold.

Most likely, and really not very surprisingly, most of the really good stuff will be found among the model kits. The biggest box can be boasted about by the Warhawk in 1/32nd scale built around the Hasegawa P-40N kit along with our photoetched brass details, masks, resin, Cartograf decals and a poster type reproduction of the boxart by Romain Hugault. There are five marking options for two types of the aircraft and there are resin exhausts and main wheels from our Brassin department. All in all, this collection is significantly richer than was our first attempt at a 1/32nd scale kit in this line, and the price is more in line of what would be expected, although it is finally little bit higher, than was announced couple of days ago. I´m very sorry for such inconvenience!

In 1/48th scale, we have a ProfiPack Fokker Dr.I with a mix of markings options from previous releases of this kit and with a new boxart in the action style of Adam Tooby depicting the final combat of Manfred von Richthofen. Contrary to the first edition of the most famous triplane of all time, this one has a single kit in the box, whereas the first release was a Dual Combo boxing. The second model in 1/48th is the Weekend Edition kit of the Bf 109F-4, with the traditional two marking options and with plastic already familiar from previous releases of this kit.

In 1/72nd, we have a ProfiPack edition of the for now last of the B.534s, this time the cannon armed Bk.534 version. As is well known, it never received the intended cannon armament, but three of these machines in German service were equipped with arresting gear for landing trials for the planned aircraft carrier, the Graf Zeppelin. This, arguably the most intriguing use of an otherwise somewhat peripheral airplane, is the subject of the boxart that realistically depicts a landing of a ‚navalized' B.534 on a training strip. The kit contains the standard photoetching, masks and decals, the latter covering three German, one Czechoslovak and one Slovak subject. The Weekend line will expand by a Spitfire Mk.VIII in 1/72nd scale in July.

There are some surprises to be found among accessory items.These include first and foremost three sets for the Camel from Wingnut Wings in 1/32nd scale, a mask, a set of details and steel seatbelts in the Steelbelts line. These sets are our reaction to a shift in the retail policy at WNW and we are hopeful this will not be the end of it. In 1/32nd, you'll also find a P-40N set under the name ‚P-40N Upgrade Set' and a set covering Luftwaffe rudder pedals. Due to their small size, this pedal set, as well as the Camel Steelbelts, are being released under the ZOOM label and are almost little kits on their own. Personally, I admire any modeller who uses them, because a small gem is created that ultimately gets sandwiched into a position where it is tough to see well. Any modeller who goes through that sort of effort and feels the reward is right on in my books!

I need to point out three sets in 1/35th. This quantity for armour kits released in one month has over the past few years become a rarity. Two sets are designed for the Pz.IV Ausf.H from Zvezda and the third is for the Scammell Pioneer SV2S fron IBG. In 1/48th, you'll find four sets for the Yak-28P from Bobcat, two of which are ZOOMS, including steel seatbelts. In the ZOOM line there are also seatbelts for the older type SE.5a, which is a response to the criticism that the kit did not have the correct type of belts. Note also set FE845, Luftwaffe Cowling Fasteners containing fasteners for various engine cowls and other accesses for Second World War Luftwaffe aircraft. There are also two sets for the German Type VII Submarine from Trumpeter. Here, I would also like to point out set 53196, German U-Boat Flags 1/48, which is a pre-painted steel flag set , as indicated by the set's name, with, I think, some very unique characteristics. 1/72nd scale among masks and photoetching is represented by coverage of the Me 262A from Airfix, and several ZOOM sets that includes the fastener set and Soviet Seatbelts from the Second World War, these also being made available in 1/72nd scale, too.

Further points of interest can be found among the new Brassin sets. First and perhaps foremost, this includes an 88mm German submarine cannon, a very detailed kit on its own and again intended for the Trumpeter Type VII sub. Furthermore in 1/48th scale, you'll note the cockpit for the Bf 109F-2 for our Eduard kit with an older rendition of the seat, not included in the model. There have been requests to do this. This seat is also being released on its own under the catalogue number 648329. An interesting group of items are the small sets of German FuG16 antennae and Bf 109F/G pitot tubes. Finally, worth noting are the 1/72nd scale wheels for the Airfix Me 262 and the 1/48th scale ones for Tamiya's He 219 and the BigSins for Tamiya's 1/32nd scale Mosquito FB Mk.VI.

Finally, I would like to request that you try and get your July pre-orders in to us sooner rather than later, and no later than June 1st. June releases will be available from May 26th, and today's announced items from June 26th. Ladies and gentlemen, thank you for your attention and I wish you success in your sales and satisfied customers.

Vladimir Sulc
